Scott Gregory Minos

Senior Policy & Communications Specialist
DOE's Office of Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy (EERE)

Scott Minos has worked in various positions for the United States Department of Energy (DOE) since 1986. He currently is employed as a Senior Energy Technology Specialist for the DOE's Office of Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy (EERE). He is responsible for key communication elements that promote DOE's domestic and international programs relating to alternative and renewable energy sources, energy efficiency, energy conservation, greenhouse gases and climate change, carbon sequestration, electric transmission, and advanced energy sciences.

Scott's main focus has been on advanced vehicle technologies and alternative fuels. He has worked extensively on a variety of DOE laboratory programs, and various DOE. Scott has also traveled throughout Africa and Asia to bring electric power to remote areas of the developing world.

Scott received his Bachelor of Science degree in Political Science from Florida State University in 1984, his Masters of Arts in Public Policy and Political Theory from Johns Hopkins University's Institute for Policy Studies at the School for Advanced International Studies in 1988, and his Masters in Public Administration from Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School in 1993. Prior to his work at the DOE, Scott worked for United States Senator Paula Hawkins (R-FL, 1984- 1986), a Member of the Florida House of Representatives, as well as being a radio personality.

Scott is also currently employed as a contract performer for the Washington National Opera and the Washington Chorus. Other interests include collecting automobiles, wrestling, and small dog rescue. Scott resides in the Harpers Ferry-Shepherdstown area of West Virginia.
